Back to the case

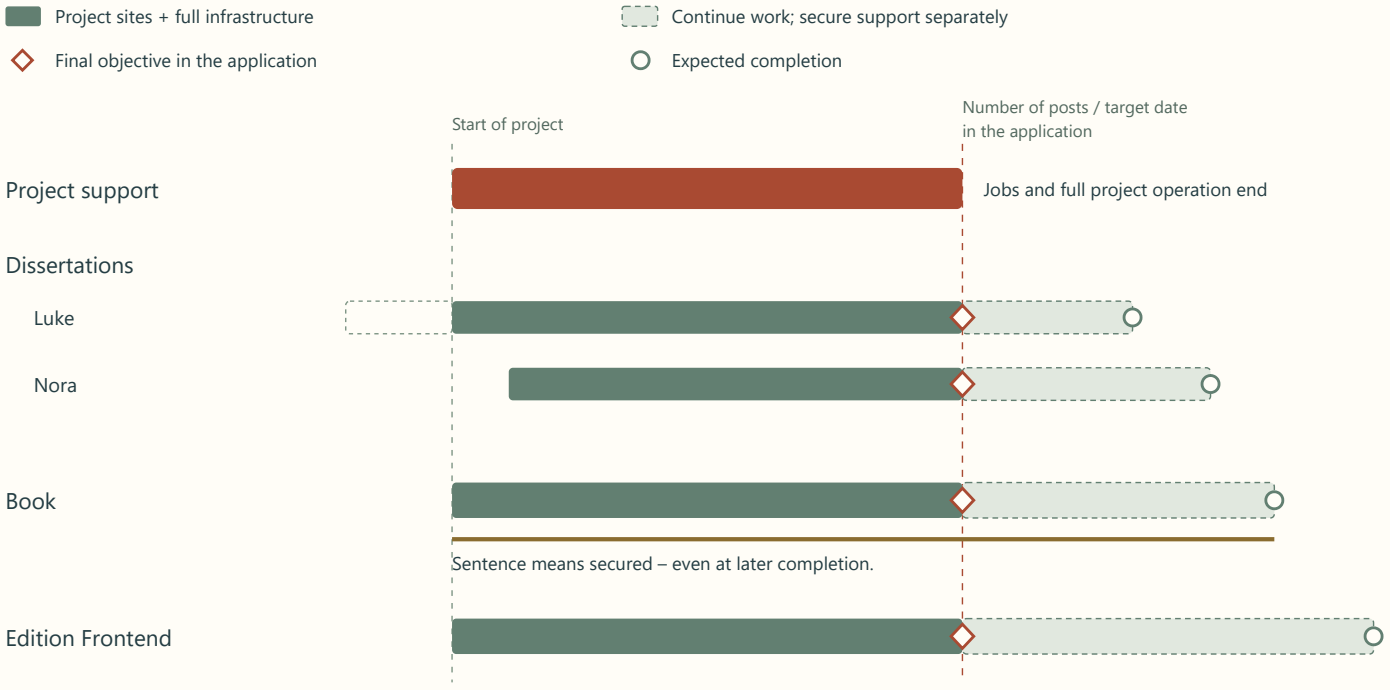

Persona and project timeline

Elise Hartmann (1842–1901) worked on her novel between 1878 and 1886 *Die andere Stadt*In it the industrialization changes a city – and with it the ways of life and relationships of its inhabitants. Hartmann began several times new, shifted chapters and let figures disappear. Individual chapters appeared in advance in magazines; the novel remained unfinished and was never published as a book.

The estate contains notebooks, two manuscript convolutes and a revised clean copy. Deletes, marginal additions and different leaf sequences tell different stories of its origin. Which designs belong together? What was changed when? Miriam Falk's team wants to make these relationships visible in a genetic edition and comprehensible on the digitalized manuscript. The printed volume offers a well-founded selected reading version and selected variations.

Lukas investigates the genesis of works; Nora traces how figures and narrative perspectives change. Both work on their own dissertations at the same time. Four years are funded, but research, publishing set and digital publication follow their own schedules.

Plan, funding and expected progress

Lukas started before the start of the project. Nora developed her project after hiring.

Full infrastructure and support are not automatically secured after the end of the job.

▼ Read graphic as text

Plan, secure support and expected progress

1. Plan, funding and expected progress
2. Project sites + full infrastructure
3. Continue work; secure support separately
4. Final objective in the application
5. Expected completion
6. Start of project
7. Number of posts / target date
8. in the application
9. Project support
10. Jobs and full project operation end
11. Dissertations
12. Luke
13. Nora
14. Book
15. Edition Frontend
16. Sentence means secured – even at later completion.
17. Lukas started before the start of the project. Nora developed her project after hiring.
18. Full infrastructure and support are not automatically secured after the end of the job.

The Roles

Miriam Falk · Scientific management and official approval

Luke · Edition and own dissertation on the work genetics

Nora · Edition and own dissertation on figures and perspectives

Participants: Auxiliary staff and technical team; library for pictures and agreed preservation; publishing house for sentence and publication.